

Comprehensive alcohol and drug testing program

An effective anti-drug program can help reduce absenteeism, minimize health care costs, and improve productivity. Protect your employees and your business by making Kaiser Permanente On-the-Job™ part of your drug and alcohol prevention program.

Kaiser Permanente On-the-Job occupational health centers provide urine specimen collection services and breath alcohol testing, and our technicians are trained and certified in U.S. Department of Transportation (DOT) and non-DOT procedures.*

We provide testing for drugs and alcohol before employment, after an accident or injury, for reasonable suspicion or cause, for return to duty, or at random as required by law. DOT workplace regulations require drug and alcohol testing for employees in many industries. We perform all tests to DOT standards.

Kaiser Permanente On-the-Job can test any employees, including:

- Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration commercial driver's license holders
- Federal Transit Administration subway and municipal train operators
- Research and Special Programs Administration pipeline workers

The benefit of prevention

Catching problems early can help your employees stay healthy and reduce time off the job. Put our long history of preventive care to work for your employees and your business.
